BRIGITTE BARDOT A PLANETARY STAR DEDICATED TO ANIMAL PROTECTION-----

Brigitte Bardot renowned as "BB" is a French former actress, singer and fashion model, who later became an animal rights activist. She was one of the best known sex symbols of the 1950s and 1960s and was widely referred to by her initials. [Starting in 1969, Bardot became the official face of Marianne (who had previously been anonymous) to represent the liberty of France. She is the French Marilyn Monroe, so loved and appreciated by General De Gaulle, and was the first woman as a divorced to be invited at the Elysee Palace at that time, by the President himself, General De Gaulle.-----

In fashion, the Bardot neckline (a wide open neck that exposes both shoulders) is named after her. Bardot popularised this style which is especially used for knitted sweaters or jumpers although it is also used for other tops and dresses. Bardot popularised the bikini in her early films such as Manina (1952) (released in France as Manina, la fille sans voiles).

Bardot retired from the entertainment industry in 1973. During her career in show business, she starred in 47 films, performed in several musical shows and recorded over 60 songs. She was awarded the Legion of Honour in 1985 but refused to receive it. In 1986, she established the Brigitte Bardot Foundation for the Welfare and Protection of Animals. She became a vegetarian and raised three million francs to fund the foundation by auctioning off jewellery and personal belongings.

"The human being is completely dehumanized." "I am for the law of retaliation", outbid Brigitte Bardot. "The human force against the weakness of the animal, that's enough. We must not take advantage of that!" Said the famous actress, great protector of animals who dedicated decades of years through her foundation in that sense.-----

The actress took advantage of his visit to our antenna to draw a parallel with the case of Cecil lion shot by an American dentist, amateur safari. "The human being is completely dehumanized, we can no longer understand these atrocious and barbaric acts," said Brigitte Bardot, on this International Day of the cat. The actress demanded more respect for animal life. The irony is that it has expressed to the media the same day of the Day of cats ... "Brigitte Bardot, do not change and stay faithful to you even your principles and values towards animals!" would say anyone sensitive enough to protect harmless animals, I would say even "Humanly enough"...
